Lost in the Tweed Regime

New York June 19—The day by ke auspictually for the formal welcoming of Bartholdt's great statue of liberty. The day was cloudless and the rays of the June sun wore tempered by a gentle stuthwest wind. Along the lower tiver ironts and the lattery wall great crowds gathered early in the day. As the morning wire on the rulutude in reason! The stene if the harter was of the Inshest description hearly every ressel, amail and large showed the firstoor and stars and stripes. When the excesses that were to escort the libers to Ledlees island arrived in the lower lay the water was swarming with crafts. As far as the eye could reach there were vessels without number. I very sort of vessel had been pressed into service by the ambitiony sightners. Soon volumes o smoke were kelding forth from the funnish of the lever, whose propeller began to revolve and she was headed in it e direction of Bedices island. The French man-of war is a lord leaded the procession. Soon her guiners uponed the salule of honor by firing twenty-one guns in the short space of 61 seconds. Hardly had the smoke character from for deck when the Initial States in an-of war Onaha replied with a broadside. This the Alliance and the low hatta fired their gons. The guns of 1 ort Washeworth thundered cut a salute as the naval procession passed such a scene as we's then presented the intert while the war ships thundered and the forts each we'll had to be subjected the war ships thundered and the forts eached with the to-ming guns. The guests on the Allante shouled thems bee hoars. The I renk efficiency for the subject which they heard on every side all the way up the harbor until the head of the procession had arrived off E floe's soluted. The shorts of New Jersey and I ong foliand resc unded with 1 e cash of guns, which rounded like a lattle at sea, without the disastions attendant circunstatices. Bis Easy Life on the Voyage-D-amatic Scene at Sea-After Milnight when he was Arrested

When the steamship fitty of Sydner left her when the steamship (tity of Sydner left her dock at San Francisco on the juth of Ap il for her voyage to Australia, there was a man on hoard who, amid all the confusion of the departure, attracted observation. He was a small man, but finely forthed and well-dressed. He had luck hely out election and a phonotonic sould parture, attracted observation in what soft in man, but finely formed and well-dressed. He had light hair cut close, and a monstache and imperial. He paced-to and fro on the forward deck networsly, rolling cugarettes. He walked with a militury bearing and had a decidedly foreign appearance. His singular conduct drew the attention of his fellow-passengers and even off the sailors, who were busy getting the ship under way. As the ressel passed through the stream, he stopped at the rail and looked at the city. When she passed the Heads with her face to the ocean, he grew sections in his manner and went to bis bunk in the steprage. He had given his manner at C d'Augurer lie was Hugh. M. Brooks, alias Walter H. Lennox Maxwell, and he had come directly from St. Louis, where he had left his murdered friend, C Arthur Preller, hidden in a trunt. His crine bad not yet been discovered, trun! His crime had not yet been discovered, and as a furtive he had escaped, as he thought, and as a ingilite he had escaped, as he alonged, from the only country where he was in danger. His restlessness and his habit of rolling eigar-ettes had excited attention, but as the ship frew away from the hills and the hidden city he be-came more composed and mingled with his fellow passengers in the steerings

FRIRADS IN THE STREEMACE.

Among them were three or four young Foglishnen, with whosh he soon got acquainted, and before dark he was engiged in a game of cards, for a small stake, with a bottle of stout beside him and a cigarette in his hand. He spoke to his new acquaintances in broken English, with a strong French accent. He said that he was a council in the French army. Although he soon lost all appearance of anxiet, he had eccentricities which made him a marked man. A few days at see not the passengers on friendly terms, and it was soon gossiped about that the French co onel was as sensitive as a Parisian and had the spiri of a soldier. He quickly resented a jest at his making an unlifferent play at cards. One discring he appeared on the forward deck in knickerbockers, with a cartridge belt about his while. As he walked book and forth, as straight as a guard, it was said that he had ninely developed legs, and one of the passengers observed hat that was the resolt of his being in the saidle so much while in the army. At another time he brought out a revo ver, which he baid hat, grown rusty in his hox, and cheaned it while sitting on deck. On another occasion he was saided on the mail bage smoring a cigarette, and mail agent Attanson told him that it was dangerous to have fire about the canvas pouches.

"Pardon monsieur," he retorted quickly, "I colone by the arm. He awoke from his sleep with a start and sat up in his bunk with a frightened stare on hie face.

"Vat do ze vant, Monsleur " be demanded up an excited tone.

"The purser only wants to change your gild," replied the steward quietly "(th, I veel come," he answered, reasoured by the quiet manner of the steward.

The French colonel got out of his bunk, theseed quietly, and went with the steward toward the purser's from They went down a dar alley on the port side of the ship, D'Auguer going ahead. Before him he saw about amiliship a light streaming out of the purser's open door, falling across the dark alley and out on to the waves. The French colonel walked quietly along with his hards in his pockets, not seeing two men, one on either side of the open door, hidden in the deep shadows of the night. He arrived at the purser's open door, and stood in front of it with his hands in his pockets and a smile on his lips. The light of the lamp fell full upon his face:

"You are wanted for a horrible murden in St. Louis," suddenly said the purser: "There's you man, selze him," he continued turning to the two officers.

The French colonel, with his baggue, was closely guarded till daybreak, when he was taken off the shap before the passengers on board were astir. When they heard the next morning of the arrest of the singular steerage presenger they were amazed, but soon began to discuss his peculiar conduct, and to remember little inclinate of the voyage that now marked him as a murderer, but when first observed were thought to be only the eccentricities of a French colonel. His anxious manner while still on the bay of San Francisco was mentioned, his constant rolling of cigarettes. The facis that a French colonel should travel in the steerage, and that a man so young should have attained a rank so high in an army where promotions are slow, were all discussed in the new light that had been thrown around the fugitive. The officers of the ship remembered these details and reinted them to a Call reporter resterday, when the City of Sydney returned from Australia.

VAIN DEMOCRATIC DENIALS

It was onke to be expected that the dem crafte organs of the country would exclaim against the Ohio republicans for deciaring in their state platform that "the right to vote accorded by the constitution of he United States is the concern of the whole people and must be secured at all hazards," and that "the demo-cratic party, which owes its national victory last fall to wilful suppression of the ballot, cannot he looked to for enforcement of the constitu

These expressions are denounced by the demo-cratic press as untrue. But of what avail is the denial? It is a matter of more notoriety than anything else that has cocurred in our politics rethan twenty-five years, that, with the jugation of the south by he national armies, there has never been any approach whatever in the southern states to fair and honest elections Before the war the republican party was not permitted even to nominate candidates in the southern states and since he war whenever it iss done so the deminant party has carried on its campaigns and won its victories through fraut, terrorism and marder. The democratic press knows this, and they who control the democratic press gloat and soult over it not openly, indeed, for that would be improduct, liut with the quiet exultation of thos know that they have acquired valuable things by methods which would admit of no defence them, they who are carrying on this scheme of fraud, supported by violence and murder, admit what they have hitherto done and give the case away against themselves. Thus, for years past, they have been admitting that secession was car ried against the will of the people of the south ern states by force, intimidation, violence and fraud. For a long time this was denied, and secession was declared to have been the soun tineous movement of the whole southern peo-ple. But of alle years it has been thought a good political card to admit the truth, though of course the admission is coupled with the claim frand and violence ruled southern elections in those days and that secession was its fruit, it has not been possible during the last dozen years to find a southern man who ever was anything else (upon his own statement) than an original and most faithful Unionist, who, with his fellows was borne down by the oligarchy that fraudu lently controlled the elections and plunged the r

So it is admitted that twenty five years ago elections in the south were carried by fraud and riolence. But there are later admissions amendments to the constitution of the United States comfer citizenship and suffrage upon the colored race. These rights were snatched away by an organized system of fraud, intimidation and murder. At first the perpetrature of those outrages defined it. They asseverated in the most selemu manner that they had lone nothing of the kind (But this was a good while ago and time enough having run by to make it safe to confess, they now say that they did at that time organize to defeat the operation of the constitutional amendments, because they were forced to do so to prevent the subversion of the objects of government and the foundations of s citizen and oter and they were forced to pulhty the rights which had been conferred upon him. An amoung correspondence is now in progress in the London Times respecting the project to introduce American food fishes in British waters. The controversy is being warmly waged on both sides Wany English epictics the have visited the United States and have desired on the many varieties of fish which are peculiar to their waters are enthusiastic in their praise. Other correspondents taking broader views arge the vast benefits that night be conferred on the poor by entarging and thereby cheapening the supply of food. The opponents of the scheme are almost entirely amateur anglers, who seem to look upon all American fish oracions monsiers, likely to prey upon the as veracious monsiers, itsay to pray opon the fish now found in British waters and drive them out of existence. They especially pour out take of treit wrath upon the American caffish. Er. Balston, a famous amous, begins a letter in the Times with the following outburst. "In mercy to men and fishes, I protest against importing this forbidding, ferocous, uncatable, but all-devouring situroid. The unfortunate builhead comes in for influented abuse all around, and incidentially the angle's pay their compliments to "the fresh water shark called the pike," the "hybrid pickerel trout, which has the vices of both and the virtues of neither of its prototypes," and "the bundle of lones which the Yankees call shad."

Shiftlessness is a good and strong word rep Shiftleseness is a good and strong word representing a very prevalent quality in life and character, and thuffleseness, though not its synonym, is its practical complier ent. When Miss ophelia, with her New England deas if thrift, entered the southern home of St. Clur, she very early became disgusted with Duals and the statement of the content of th shiftlessness and-waste. But blast is not the type of wastefulness in rich men's omes aloue. She is found "nume ously" in the four man's cottage. We may lay down the broad propose tion that the wasteful methods as I nothrifty habits of the poor have more to do with their unhappy condition than bad laws or the weak-ening influence of the state or other mechanical means for battering their condition

It is not school education, church going, state care or poorhouses and asylume, or changes of the laws that will make people happy or emblo them to make the most of circumstances. In addition to virtue, Industry and enterprise every man to be comfortable must have thrift. every man to be comfortable mint have thrift. The thrifty working man is never an anarchist. He may not get hig wages, but he has the sense to make the most of them. The wheel of fortune is always turning. The men who band together in dieness an l with marchy in their hearts, undertake to speak for "workingmen," represent classes that neither government nor anarchy can help. They are where they are through the rown shiftlessness and vices. There is no known process by which you can produce grapes from thoms or figs from thisties. If every monument of in-dustry were razed to the ground to-day, and the anarchists were put at the top, they woult stay there no longer than water would abide on the sharp summit of a bull. Gravitation does not more surely do its work in the air and through the ether, than vice gravitates to destruction The only help for the victous man is to be vitthis, unfortunately, in too many cases, is the last prescription he wishes to try

ENFORCEMENT OF A GOOD LAW.

The act to prevent deception in sales of dairy products, passed by the last leg slature, like a good deal of the work of that body, is not with-out defect. It does not say in one or two sec tions precisely what was desired and intended, and an unfortunate misuse of terms has ren dered another section of doubtful authority but in the main it is an effective law, and it has resulted already in bring from the market the spuricus and unwholsome compounds which were firmerly sold as butter, and in improving the quality of genume butter of the lower grades marketed in this and other cities of the slate. The reform has been brought about more by peaceful n ethods of presention rather than he harsh enforcements of the law. Upon assum ing the dates f dury commissioner under the new year, her W. W. DR LINDSLEY'S SPEECH

Before the General Assembly at Cincinnati on the Adoption of the Home Missionary Report.

Macpine of the Home Missionary Report.

W: Movernor — I appear before you with some burdened heart. The discussions in the con mittee whose report as if your hands were all teleral with the melancholy lines of the last disspecial report, which presents reasons for retrenchment.

What does refrenchment mean. It means ruting down sciances and cutting oil supplies the field of the results of the care for our flocks, and shepherd the scattered sheep. It means paners, arrest, defeat!

It means refusal to send out new ment to care for an index, and shepherd the scattered sheep. It means pures, arrest, different to an immensely greater member he our congregations, this proposed outlook is intolerable. I appear on their behalf. I pleat in the crise of clients who are as sheep having no shepherd. We want in the syne do if the climbal twenty ministers to ocche is eligible localities some of which will survive under delay, all of them will suffer, some of them will be forfeited. Other synois on the Pacific coast and in the wide interior are also calling for recruits.

I task you, Mr. Moderator, to take a survey of they asta area. Take it is detail, pass over the Northern Pagine miliway from it Paul westward through Minnesota, Daiota, Montana, Labo Washington, Gregon, and as you glide on we downly different of railway transportation, and the external sequence at your ments as a panorama of drightiol surprises, enticing you to forget the refreshment of the appeatite in the grathication of the lacte for the beauties of the natural security and then consider the spiritual destription of the actually exists in the most of their sittages which you are passing through, and many more on either side of the head which are beyond your sight. These extended regions were till lately a wasle, unoccupied except by wild beasts and wilder men. Numerous bands of settlers are penetrating it and yet as they disappear they make to more impression than drops of water falling upon a vast inland sea, so large is the area yet to be possessed. The greatness of our country leaves a vaguo impression, unless we go over it state by state. An early poet wrole.

In regard to the obscure passages which had been made planer by the reasons for Nawton cited many examples. Among them was the factors example of contradiction of the meaning of the prophet found in the description which bound gives of the preparation for the comme. Messuch, white a trade. The every ing of the prophet found in the description which bands gives of the preparation for the coming. Mesuch, where it reads "for event hattle of the wart of is with confused noise and gar sends rolle in bot. I hat this should be with but may and find of fire." This seemed to pushe the day of althout exceed the cerous of ordinary war. What the prophet meant becomes clear now. "For all the arm of the grandman in the timoid and the garmants tolled in blood should be even for burning, for ford, for any in the day of judgment is in end of all war. In Hossa, iv to, Israel was represented as shifting back like a backshing before. This is all the puzzied the lovers of cattle. I sit will take puzzied the lovers of cattle. I sit will be seen for the stock farm do not disclose the seepers of the stock farm do not disclose the seepers of the stock farm do not disclose the seepers of the stock farm do not disclose the seepers of the stock farm do not disclose the stephing point he investing the fire." From you who he true! I be addition header the form their positive will understain the dission. A notable example of the other disclosed the description of Abraham's offening up I state. The passage real that "woll did tempt Abraham. This was now rightly readered, "Good did prove Abraham." It was not horrent thought that God sherid actually tempt a man right early but it was concerable that be shot ld prove or try a man through temptation. If the ampartant class of doction it posses.

shot di prove or try a man through temptation of changes in the important class of doctrait points, said Mr. Newton, these are comparative by few. An excess of conservation mutually marked the inbors of the English committee. The new criticism Rad transposed the pentatenchal legislation from the beginning of Hebrew bistory to well might its close. It assigns it to a period of exite and finds in it, no the making of laws but the compilation and colinication of pre-exist of legislation. It became very much what the institutes of Justiman are in Roman listory. The English reader has found it difficult to note any traces of pre-exist ing legislation, of which there ought to be some huits in Hebrew history, if it was so. The revision alids him in that matter. One massage diminists the fact that the pressty legislation of the Pentateuch was in reality a codin, duin of a usit mass of legal decisions, and had been preserved through governations among the tribes in the form of traditions.

A change which would at once strike every observant reader is the dropping of the word shell. A similar change in the new testament revision made the word bades a situative for the word hold in the great in yority of instances. While it stood upon the pages of our bit legion and resulted to substitute for the word hold in the great in yority of mistances words of the Hebrew or Greak the frightful visions of the medies of the slope medies of the oliginal is saif or the critical to definite the word to substitute the region it is after the word to substitute the region and to alkeys and free form from preprince and trades and finite services.

Merits of O . Testament Revision

National Idesyncremes Discovered in the Work of the English and American Scholars-Changes in Doctrinal Points

NIN YORK, July 10 -The Rev R Heber Newton discussed the revision of the old testament yesterday before a large audience. It was curious to note, he said the national i hosyncra-sies that came forth in the conjoint labors of the English and American revisers. The English region and American revisers. The Engrish revisers had former the conservative branch of the commission, while the American revisers had been more ready for change. The scholarthy of America, Fir Newton thought, had been had been apply to the scholar that the scholar thread the scholar thread the scholar thread the scholar thread thread the scholar thread thread thread the scholar thread thr thip of America, Fir Newton thought, hid been laced in a new and favorable light by the character of the work of the American committee. The work did not purport to make all the changes that were desirable, but only such as stemed necessary in order to secure greater accuraty and chart issa.

In regard to the absoure passages which hal

In rigard to the obscure passages within the teen made planner by the revisers Mr. Nowdon a ted many examples. Among them was the famous example of contradiction of the meaning of the prophst found in the description which learth gives of the preparation for the coming Messiah, where it reads "ther every parts of the preparation for the coming Messiah, where it reads "the every parts of the secretary with a refused message and ung of the prophot found in the description which Isaich gives of the preparation for the coming Messiah, where it reads "for every bottle of the warrier is with a microsid noise and garments rolled in blood of it this shall be with burning and fuel of fit "This seemed to make the day of Johovch exceed the lettrars of or harry war. What, the prophet me un't econosiclear now "For all the arm of the arms' man in the tunnit and the garments rolled in blood shall be even for burning, for fuel for inter." That is, the flay of judgmont is an end of ul war. In Hossa, iv it, Israel was represented as siding hack like a backsilling heifer. This must have puzzlet the lovers of cattle for what sort of a creatmen backsilling heifer. This must have puzzlet the lovers of cattle for what sort of a creatmen backsilling heifer was the secrets of the slock farm do not disclose. We get light upon the mystery when we rist "Israel bath behave herself stubb ornly, like a stubborn heifer." Every boy who has tried to fend cows from their pasture will understand the allusion. A nokable example of the education mitted description of Abraham's offering up Isaac. The passage read that "Gold did tempt Abraham. This was now rightly rendered, "God did proyer Abraham." It was an abbortent thought that God should notually tempt a man into evil, but it was conceivable that he should prove or try a man through templation. Of changes in the important class of doerlinal points, said Mr. Newton, there are comparative by few. An excess of conservation maturally marked the labors, of the English committee. marked the labors of the English committee. The new criticism had transposed the penta teuchal legislation from the beginning of Hebrew listory to well night the close. It assigns it to a period of exile and finds in it, not the making of laws but the compilation and codilication of pre-existent legislation. It became very much what the institutes of Justinian are in Roman listory. The English render has found it difficult to note any truces of pre-existing legislation, of which there ought to be some litts in Hebrew history, if it was so The revision aids him in that matter. One passage illumines the fact that the priestly legislation of the Pentateuch was in reality a codification of a vast mays of legal decisions, and had been preserved through generations among the tribes in the form of traditions.

Secretary Bayard believes that the poseession of such information regarding the cost of munufactured and the price of raw materials abroad, will also be of great advantage to the United States government in the collection of duty on imported articles of foreign manufacture.

[RAN's PROBARIE ENTIREMENT

WASHINGTON, June 18—[Special.]—The visit of Dullas Sanders of Philadelphia to this city again revives the report of the probable retirement of First Assistant Postmaster-General Hay. The work of the first assistant of the department has increased over a hundred fold since the advent of the new administration and its next to impossible for a min in Hay's delicate state of health to manage it successfully or as promptly as is expected. He is compelled to leave his office frequently after working two or three hours and seek the rest his bealth requires. His retirement will necessitate a complete reorganization of the first assistant to the particular and the following changes, it is reported at the department, will trunspire on the story of the first assistant operation as first assistant operation as first assistant operation as first assistant postmaster general, wi
